

Chidori-ga-fuchi Cherry Blossom

📍 2 chome Kudan Minami, Chiyoda City, Tokyo

About the Cherry Blossom at the Chidori-ga-fuchi

The Chidorigafuchi Trench is one of the best places in Tokyo to see the cherry blossoms in spring, from late March to early April. This 700-meter walk next to the Imperial Palace moat offers beautiful scenery and great opportunities for discovery. During the popular cherry blossom season, the paths along the moat are colored pink by hundreds of cherry trees. The trees are also lit at night during the Chiyoda Sakura Cherry Blossom Festival. A little later in the year the surface of the water is almost completely covered by falling petals.
